U.S. Says Israel Violates Law By Building on Arab Lands

By Marilyn Berger WASHINGTON, June 9 (WP). The State Department today issued a pointed reminder to Israel that it considers the construction of permanent facilities in occupied Arab territory a violation of international law. State Department spokesman

Charles W. Bray, responding to a series of questions concerning U.S. aid t: Israel, went on to volunteer a strongly worded statement. He said, "On the general question of the construction of housing and other permanent civilian facilities in the occupied zone, our policy is to call for strict observance of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949, to which Israel is a party."

Mr. Bray continued, "This con-vention prohibits the occupying power from transferring parts of its population into occupied territory. We interpret this to include undertaking the construction of permanent facilities which have the intent of facilitating the transfer of the Israell population into occupied territories.

While U.S. officials have previously referred to the requirements of international law, the timing of the unexpected statement from Mr. Bray raised the question of whether his specific reference to a specific convention constitutes a new attempt to intensify pressure on Israel.

Top officials in the State Department immediately denied any effort to goad Israel and, indeed, it appeared that the carefully phrased statement was made without the knowledge of some of the senior officials who might normally be involved.

Big-4 Consensus Reported On Access to West Berlin

By David Binder BONN, June 9 (NYT).-Western sources reported today that a consensus had been reached on access to West Berlin-a key element in the proposed four-power agreement on Berlin. The sources said that the four-power negotiators-the ambassadore of the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain and France —had come to an apparent agreement Monday on liberalizing the controls of civilian car and truck traffic between West Berlin and West Germany. The Western city is situated 110 miles within the Communist East German state.

In an address to the lower house of parliament (Bundestag) today, West German Chancellor Willy Brandt said that the Berlin negotiations had entered a "de-cisive state." Though he did not go into detail, he was clearly referring to the developing access

One source spoke of an ar-

Kosygin Says Russia Will Reduce Europe Forces If NATO 'Sincere

MOSCOW, June 9 (UPI) --Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said today the Soviet Union is willing to reduce its armed forces in central Europe if NATO countries display a "sincere" position on bi-lateral withdrawals.

Mr. Kosygin, addressing a televised election meeting in the Bolshol Theater, also accused the West of "frustrating progress" on Soviet peace proposals. He said:

"We are not, of course, against careful preparation and study of questions. But one must discriminate between when the matter concerns preparation and when efforts are made under the guise of preparation to frustrate the peace proposals.

The Opposite Direction' "We shall continue to expose the maneuvers of those who only talk of peace but who act in quite the opposite direction."

Relations with the United States "cannot be called satisfactory," Mr. Kosygin said.

POW Stand Called Rigid, Not Flexible

U.S. Accuses Hanoi of Deceptions

By Murrey Marder WASHINGTON, June 9 (WP). -The Nixon administration aceused North Vietnam today of creating a deceptive "impression of flexibility" on negotiating the release of war prisoners while holding to a "very hard" line on Spokesmen at the White House and the State Department made a major effort to spike the new-est pressure on the administration to fix a Dec. 31, 1971, date for total U.S. troop withdrawals from Indochina, tied to the release of American prisoners of The White House claimed that "false hopes" for release of the prisoners are being created.

Administration officials cited as new public evidence of Hanoi's "very hardline positions" on POW release an interview with North Vietnam's chief negotiator in Paris, Xuan Thuy, published to-day in The Washington Post (and in the International Herald Trib-

Mr. Thuy said in the interview, conducted by Chalmers M. Rob-erts of The Washington Post that "if a reasonable date is set [for U.S. troop withdrawall, the question of prisoners may be settled." Later in the interview, Mr. Thuy used the phrase "will be settled." But he also said that "as long as Nixon does not set a date, we cannot go into details of a settlement."

Even more significantly, Mr. Thuy for the first time discussed two other conditions which nelther the United States nor North Vietnam previously has focused on in public. Mr. Thuy said that by withdrawal Hanoi means withdrawal of all U.S. combat forces -ground, air or sea-that could strike at Vietnam. Mr. Thuy also indicated for the first time that North Vietnam will seek to cut off as well all U.S. military

The Nixon administration itself has avoided public discussions of these two issues, which its own strategists are known to regard as more significant than prisoner release. But the bulk of today's official comments continued to focus on the narrower and more politically and emotionallycharged subject of prisoners:

Presidential Press Secretary Ron Ziegler charged that "there perhaps may be an attempt" by former Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford and unnamed others "to exploit the plight of American prisoners of war for domestic political objectives."

Army Promoted General Named In Crimes Probe

WASHINGTON, June 9 (NYT). -The Army has promoted a brigadier general to major general while investigating alleged atrocities that occurred under his command in Vietnam in 1969.

Maj. Gen. John W. Barnes formerly commander of the 173d Airborne Infantry Brigade, was promoted to the two-star rank March 1, five months after the start of an investigation into the alleged war crimes and cover-

In most investigations the Army has "flagged" the files of officers involved until the inquiry has been completed and the case dismissed or settled by court-martial. No favorable action, such as promotion, may be taken while a file is flagged.

Mr. Ziegler said today that Mr. Clifford "did not choose to discuss his remarks with us before he made them." Mr. Ziegier added that reports which "say something would happen or might happen if a given position was taken by the United States . . . tend to raise hopes . . ." The spokesman was asked if he was saying specifically that Mr. Clifford "is just doing this for domestic politics." Mr. Zlegier: "I think my remarks relate to false hopes, yes."

Question: "By Clifford?"

Mr. Ziegler: "Yes." The spokesman referred to what he called Mr. Clifford's "speculation . . . based on a source hidden to this side" about how events might unfold. "It appears," said Mr. Ziegler, "that there is an effort on the part of the other side to create an attitude or impression of flexibility when, indeed, their position has not changed at the talks in

A Copter-Borne Battalion Relieves Vietnam Fire Base

SAIGON, June 9 (UPI).—A bettation of South Vietnamese paratroopers landed by helicopter today at Fire Base 5, in the Central Highlands, relieving the two-month siege of the base near the border of Laos.

They were supported by U.S. and South Vietnamese aircraft using napalm and bombs. B-52s had delivered heavy blows a few hours earlier at the North Vietnamese troops grouped around the base, 190 miles north of Salgon, after Communist troops launched a heavy morter assault that killed six men of an overland relief force which has been blocked for days. In Cambodia, meanwhile, some of the most intense fighting of the war in that country was reported 11 miles northeast of the capital, Phnom Penh, whero heavy North Vietnamese forces continued their efforts to set up rocket bases before the monsoon rains begin. Cambodian apokesmen reported 100 Communists killed in the battle, which yesterday was reported to have cost the Cambodians 80 killed or wounded.

Pighting also flared in the Mekong Delta, 45 miles south of Saigon, and a South Vietnamese spokesman said government infantrymen supported by artillery and U.S. helicopter gunships killed 70 Viet Cong who attacked the Han Hoa outpost. Government losses were announced as two dead and 16 wounded.

Fire Base 5 has been the scene of vicious fighting for two months as the North Vietnamese tried to overrun the artillery position, which interdicts infiltration routes from Laos. At times the Communists ringing the hilltop base have thrown up such intense anti-aircraft fire that relief supplies were halted.

Pield reports said the 300-man relief force met only light resis-tance from the Communist gunners and mortar crews in the dense jungle following the B-52 raids and strikes by allied Cobra helicopter gunships, which bathed the North Vietnamese positions in napalm and saturated them with cannon and rocket fire.

Military sources said the de-fenders of the base had lost 33 dead and 60 wounded in the siege and that the 290 detenders were down to a million rounds of small-arms ammunition and a 15-day supply of food.

Spokesmen identified the ound-relief force as the 3d Battalion of the 1st Airborne Brigade the defenders of Hill 31, which was overrun by a North Vietnamese tank force in last winter's Lactian campaign. The enemy used tear gas as well as mortars in the attack yesterday, killing six and wounding 20, They had fought their way to within 500 yards of the base.

U.S., Swiss Trade Suspects In Heroin and Jewel Cases

By Morris Kaplan

NEW YORK, June 9 (NYT),-A suspected heroin smuggler wanted in concection with an alleged multimillion-dollar conspiracy was held here yesterday in bail totaling $1 million in what appeared to be an exchange of prisonners between the United States and Switzerland.

The suspect, Jack Grosby, who jumped $50,000 hall in September, 1968, was extradited from Geneva Monday night. Last Thursday night, an Israeli gem dealer under arrest here and wanted in Zurich in connection with a $2.2million jewel robbery, was placed aboard a Swissair jetliner by federal authorities.

He was identified as Joseph Garji, 28. The Swiss had sought since last March to have him extradited.

The U.S. Attorney'e office in Brooklyn would not comment on tha likelihood of "a deal," or whether the exchange was merely

On Sept. 5, 1968, Grosby jumped ball. He was arrested by Swiss anthorities in September, 1970, at the request of the U.S. government. He fought extradition pro-ceedings, appealing to the high-est courts in Switzerland.

Grosby pleaded not guilty at his arraignment yesterday. Bail his arraignment yesterday. Bail was fixed at $500,000 at the request of the government.

He was later held in another court in $500,000 ball on unrelated heroin smuggling charges contained in an indictment last August of four defendants whose business exceeded $500 million a year, the government charged. #### Senate Votes 5.5 Billion for Public Works

WASHINGTON, June 9 (WP) .-The Senate, overriding Republican opposition, passed yesterday a compromise $5.5-billion measure to provide public works jobs across the nation. The vote was 45 to 33.

The measure would also extend the Appalachian regional development program. Democrats had said privately that they believed President Nixon would veto the bill, but they nevertheless mustered the votes to push it through. It was supported by 42 Democrats and 3 Republicans and opposed by 32 Republicans and 1 Democrat, William Proxmire of Wisconsin

The House is expected to send it on to the President next week. The bill originated in the Senate, which passed it in March chiefly as a measure to extend the six-year-old Appalachia pro-

The House expanded the bill io passing it in April. The key feature that it added was a $2-billion accelerated public works program designed to provide jobs in areas of high unemployment.

It was this provision that drew GOP fire in the Senate debate. Sen. Howard H. Baker jr., R., Tenn, called it a "pork barrel" that would produce jobs at a cost of $20,000 each.

However, Sen. Jennings Ran-dolph., D., W.Va., floor manager for the bill, insisted that "it precents a well-balanced approach to problems of unem-ployment throughout the whole

In other developments: • The Senate Democratic Policy Committee endorsed a broadcast spending limit of 5 cents per potential voter as contained in the Commerce Committee version of the campaign reform bill. The party unit chose this limitation in preference to the 10-cents-per-voter celling on broadcast and other media expenses contained in the Rules Committee version.

A House Labor subcommittee approved by an 8-4 vote along party lines legislation defining "total disability" in black-lung beoefit claims as "the inability of a miner, by reason of a medically determinable physical impairment, to engage in substantially gainful employment as a miner."

• The House voted to raise the ceiling on federal funds for the National Science Foundation to $819 million in the oext fiscal

• House leaders held up a vote oo U.S. participation in the international coffee agreement pending discussions of Brazil's claim to sovereignty op to 200 miles offshore.

N.Y. Power Use Sets a Record

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP). New Yorkers used more electricity between 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. yesterday than at any time in the city's history, the Consolidated Edison Co. said. The demand was met without having to impose a power cutback.

The day's high temperature of 93 degrees was two degrees below the record high set for the date in 1933.

Preliminary figures indicated that between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. 7,384,000 kilowatts were used, topping the record of 7,376,000 set an hour before. The peak usage was 118.800 kilowatts more than the demand on July 17, 1969. On that day, Con Ed had to impose a 3 percent voltaga reduction-a brownout-to compensate.

Strike Ends

Action on Pension

NEW YORK, June 9 (NYT) .-Striking New York City municipal workers accepted a settlement formula last night, and agreed to end immediately their walkout, which had disrupted the city for two days.

Under the four-point procedure put forward by the Office of Collective Bargaining, a controver-eial pension plan, which the New York State Legislature failed to approve—and which precipitated the strike—would be resubmitted to the 1972 legislature.

But the formula also called for negotiation and eventual submission of the issue to an impartial panel if next year's legislature, which would have the same composition as this year's, does not adopt the plan or should diminish it.

The striking workers resumed their duties this morning. The sudden settlement came after the strike of municipal employees spread yesterday to sewage, incineration parks and school lunch workers.

On Monday, hundreds of thousands of motorists were caught in traffic jams when bridge tenders opened swing bridges and other workers abandoned trucks on major highways In Albany, meanwhile, after weeks of intense negotiations and acrimonious exchanges between Gov. ## 2 U.S. Crashes Revive Airport Safety Issue

By Frank C. Porter

WASHINGTON, June 9 (WP). -Fatal crashes on Sunday and Monday ended an 18-month period in which not a single pas-senger on a scheduled domestic airline lost his life.

They also sthred anew a controversy over airport and airway safety that has been largely dormant over the last year.

The Tweed-New Haven, Conn., sirport, where 28 persons died Monday when an Allegheny Airlines turboprop undershot the runway, became the focal point of bitter recriminations.

It had been cited as dangerous as far back as September, 1969, by the head of an Air Line Pilots Association study of the nation's was lacking because residents of nearby East Haven have blocked the zirport's expansion through a series of court suits.

"It is infuriating that the public interest is being so badly served and that a few people can bring airport development to a grinding halt," he said.

Much the same view was taken by Capt. Phil Perry, a member of the ALPA Airport Safety Committee that made the 1969 survey.

"Communities that want air service and won't accept the responsibilities that go with it just don't deserve the service," he said in a telephone interview.

Anthony V. Memayo, a lawyer for the East Haven group, denied Mr. Malarkey's charge: "For years now, we've been warning them about such a disaster because we've seen them bring planes in there when you can't even see the tower . . .

9 Other Airports

According to published reports at the time, the ALPA survey also named these other nine airports as "dangerous."

Bradford, Pa., site of two Allegheny Airlines crashes in two weeks in 1968; Greater Cincinnati airport, where two crashes occurred in 1967; Kennedy Inter-national in New York; Bluegrass Airport, Lexington, Ky.; Molokai and Kona airports, Hawaii; Kansas City, Mo., Municipal airport: Kanawha airport, Charleston, W.Va., and Miami International airport.

Capt. Joseph W. Meek, chairman of the ALPA committee, could not be reached for coinment yesterday.

But Capt. Perry said that in no sense could the list be considered as the "ten most dangerous airports" in the United States as it has been frequently con-

Capt. Meek had cited them, in response to questions, as offering certain problems under certain operating conditions, Capt, Perry explained.

Only One Failing

Capt. Perry said, for example that it is "absurd" to call Mismi International dangerous. Capt. Meek had merely called attention port that, he said, might have been built to built in a better location, Capt. Perry explained.

Runways Improved

As for JFK in New York, the runways used to be rough and sometimes slippery. Capt. Perry went on, but since then they have been improved.

Capt. Perry said that of about 530 American airports used by commercial airlines, more than 300 still have no instrument landing systems. And many are still hampered by short runways (as in the case of Tweed-New Haven). bad approach lighting and peripheral lighting, and other factors.

Arnoldo Mondadori, Founded Publishing Empire in Ita

MILAN, June 9 (UPI),-Arnoldo Mondadori, 82, Italy's leading publisher and the man who acquainted Italians with such novelists as Ernest Hemingway and William Faulkner, died at his home yesterday from a kidney disease.

Mr. Mondadori had retired two years ago, leaving his publishing house in the hands of his son Ciorgo.

A self-made man whose creed was that my good book will find readers, Mr. Mondadori built up a publishing empire that churned out everything from Franz Kafka and Luigi Pirandello to Mickey Monee comics. Yearly sales of Mondadori books and magazines averaged 75 biltion lire ($120 million)."

The son of an illiterate worker in the village of Pogglo Rusco, Mr. Mondadori went into publishing in 1907 by printing a novel by an obscure Socialist politician. His business quickly expanded and he reached nationwide prominence in the 1930s by acquainting the people of Fascist Italy with such foreign authors Thomas Mann, Hemingway and Pearl S. Buck

He fled to Switzerland in the final years of the Pascist regime and laid the groundwork there for his new, postwar publishing rentures in Italy, which ranged from collections of classics to women's magazines and Walt Disney comics.

East-West Trade: Old Habits Die Hard

Balance-of-payments worries are coming to outweigh considerations of ideology in the shaping of American trade policy, and it's about time. For a generation after World War II, the United States commonly treated trado as an instrument of global policy. Countries with which we had political and ideological disputes—the Communist countries-were regarded as unworthy of the privilege of trading with us. We rationalized an elaborato strategic scaffolding for embargoes, blockades, strategic lists, tariff discrimination, export controls, and so on: inevitably, a big bureaucracy grew up with a vested interest in maintaining and expanding these various restrictions. In the interim, our competitors-many of them our allies-took the business. West Europe's trade with East Europe and Russia is ten times ours, and we do no business at all with China and Cubs.

Only now, when we have become seized by an entirely appropriate concern for our recurring balance-of-payments deficits and our declining trade balance, are we starting to realize that the practice of indiscriminate economic warfare is a costly anachronism. Hard times have brought home the lesson of how harmful and gratuitous it is both economically and politically to inject artificial "strategic" objections into the free play of world commerce. This te the significance of the report that the United States has approved licenses for the export of $85 million in vehicle-making equipment to the Soviet Union. Just a year ago Defense Secretary Laird destroyed a prospective Ford truck deal with Russia. demanding that first "there should be some indication on the part of the Soviet Union that they're not going to continue sending the trucks to North Vietnam by shiploads for use on the Ho Chi Minh Trail."

Well, no such indication has been given. It was idle anyway to imagine Moscow would cut off Hanoi for the sake of American trucks -when it can buy European trucks, some made under American license. In the year since then, economic pressure has shaved the Pentagon's Neanderthal influence on trade policy, and now American firms will he allowed to compete for an important range of orders previously off-limits to them. But the contest between bad habit and good sense is far from over. Currently Chile wants to buy two more Boeing-707s and a 727. Some officials reportedly are balking at the deal on the ground that Chile may land the planes at Havana and that the newly elected Marxist government in Santiago hasn't established how it will pay its future bills or what it will pay for nationalized American properties. These considerations are demeaning; that they are raised at all testifles to the ossification of cold-war thinking on trade. Other American-made planes already land at Havana. Chile has paid past bills without fruit. To wield 707s and 727s as a political cinb is (1) to insult Chile, (2) to ignore its ability to buy commercial jets elsewhere. (3) and to stiffen any incipient Chilean tendencies to go hard on the nationalized American firms.

We trust the decision on the planes will reflect Mr. Nixon's words of March 25 to Boeing employees, after the SST defeat: "Each time I fly in Air Force One-a Boeing plane_I am reminded of the role Boeing has played in making America the world'e leader in commercial aviation. Throughout the world, the 707, the 727, the 737, and now the giant 747 have become symbols of America's leadership."

The most intriguing East-West trade case now pending concerns the list of items permissible in trade with China which Mr. Nixon has said he will release next week. The key question is whether he will apply a more stringent measure to China than Russia, as the Pentagon is urging him to do on the ground that China, being less advanced, will be hurt by denial of some items whose denial to Russia would be meaningless.

This is, of course, precisely the reason to put trade with both countries on the same basis. Politically, discrimination against Peking would undo much of the benefit gained from the President's new China initiatives. Economically it would simply insure that China will buy elsewhere or create its own capacity. This goes for food products as well as manufactured goods. And in the case of food, it would be wise to remove the restriction, adopted by President Kennedy in a weak political moment, which requires half of the food grains shipped to Communist countries to be carried in American ships. So high are their rates that they have effectively discouraged food shipments.

In a country ostensibly dedicated to free enterprise, why should the government intervene in private trading decisions? Doubtless there is a class of items, however hard it may be to define them, which have a direct military potential rendering them "strategic," and these should not be sold. But the idea that the United States alone has the economic resources or the political clout to control industrial and military progress clsewhere has been proven wrong by events. It is an illusion which the country's politics' can no longer abide and which the country's economy can no longer afford.

scored another major space first by creating the large manned orbiting station now circling the earth. Manned vehicles have orbited before this, but they have all been relatively small.

The pressurized portion of the Salyut space station has a cubic volume more than 15 times as great as the crew compartment of the Apollo command module. This implies immediately that the Soviet space station can carry a great deal more equipment than any previous manned vehicle, while it also provides space for more diverse activities than was possible for astronauts penned up in the cramped quarters heretofore avail-

Moscow has stressed the scientific purposes of the Salyut vehicle, and there is no reason to question these goals. This first space station is very much of an experimental model, from which much can and will be learned about man's capabilities for working in a weightless environment. Moreover, the collection of scientific data about earth and about outer space has been long recognized as one of the prime areas of nsefulness for stations like Salyut.

Nevertheless, it must be recognised that Salyut and its successors raise important new problems for international law and international relations. Back in 1960, during the celebrated case of the American U-2

Soviet scientists and engineers have plane shot down over the Urals, Soviet leaders became very indignant about a manned American vehicle flying over their country. There have been no similar protests about the manned and unmanned satellites of the space era. but uneasiness must grow as political leaders in many countries contemplate the potential military uses of large, semi-permanent manned space stations euch

> There needs to be much more explicit agreement than now exists as to what may and may not be done with orbiting space statione. But even if there is such agreement, the problem of verification will remain. The solution will not omerge until space stations are internationalized, either by making them the exclusive instruments of the United Nations or by requiring that their crews be composed of astronants from countries of diverse political complexion.

For the moment, technology has badly outrun the development of legal and operational mechanisms to assure that space will always bo a zono of peace rather than, potentially, still another arena for conflict. The Soviet Union unveiled on Monday a proposed new treaty covering men's activities on the moon, but a far more pressing immediate need is a corresponding treaty governing men's activities on and with large orbiting space stations.

WASHINGTON. D.C.-Major General Charles T. Mencher, chief of the Army Air Service. has asked Secretary of War Weeks to relieve Brigadier General William Mitchell, assistant to the Chief of the Air Service. While Secretary Weeks will not say what action will be taken on the request, all precedent and Army discipline will probably cause him to relieve General Mitchell. It is definitely known that Brigadier General Mitcheli favors a united Army and Navy Air Service and that Major General Mencher is against this move.

The Fragile Cities

By James Reston

NEW YORK-New York City is supposed to have the power to overwhelm all its squabbling citizens. Like some great, elemental force of nature, it seems as permanent as its great rivers. polluted but irresistible.

That is bow it seems: steel drilled and cemented deep into granite, and soaring above the clouds. But the latest resh of strikes by the municipal workers, locking its drawbridges in midriver and threatening to drown It in garbage, illustrates once more the fragility of the modern

Like the mightiest of nations, New York rests on power which is highly vulnerable to guerrilla warfare. Its energy is not going to be stopped this time by a few angry bridge mechanics and sanitation workers and their frightened union bosses, but their assertion of arbitrary power to force the city and the state to meet their demands at the expense of the people, raises questions about the rights and duties of public service employees that have to be faced.

There are now ebout 13 million people working in the United States for federal, state, and local governments-almost 18 percent of the total work force. These are not only men who operate the bridges and collect the garbage, but also policemen, firemen, and workers who supervise the whole electrical power structure on which the great cities of America dopend.

Outlook Darkening

Accordingly, if public-service employees in the federal, state, and municipal governments can use force to try to get the wages and pensions they want, as the bridge and sanitation workers in New York are now doing, the outlook for the cities will be even more bleak than it is today.

It is easy to understand the demands of the striking munici-pal workers in New York, and even the desperation which makes them risk anarchy to deal with their economic problems. Outside of the very rich in New York, the rest are complaining that the cost of living, taxation, inflation, and education is staggering. Not only the bridge technicians and sanitation workers, but even the successful management and professional classes are in serious economic trouble, and would probably strike if they could.

Se organized labor is not alone. It organized in order to fight the arbitrary power of the employers, but it is now using the power of violence to achieve its own ends. When this is done by public-service workers who stand at the police, fire, and power gates of a great city, it can peralyze the whole community.

This is the real issue in the present New York City strikes. If bridge workers and sanitation workers can use force to compel the state and city to meet their demands, why not policemen, firemen, teachers, electrical supervisors; and all other public service employees?

Power of Paralysis

Such is the reliance of vast cities like New York on electrical power that 50 key electrical workers, down the right manholes, could paralyze every electrical circuit and stop every subway, elevator, air conditioner, and computer in Manhattan

There is a fundamental difference between working for a private concern and working for a city, state or federal agency. You don't have to take a public service job, but if you do, there is an obligation to render public service and this is what the municipal workers in New York are

They are insisting on using the arbitrary power their unions were established to oppose on the part of management. In fact, the leaders of the present strikes in New York have gone so far that even this pro-labor city is up in arms against them. And so are the national labor leaders, though they are bolder in private then

Tough as this city is, powerful as it is, it always wonders what would happen if all its publicservice employees, police, firemen, teachers and all the rest, insisted

The U.S. Economic Conundrum

Back to the Slide Rul

By Joseph Kraft

WASHINGTON. - The latest there is little chance of sti batch of economic statistics does not merely report more bad news about unemployment and inflation. This time the indicators record a new fact that explains the continuation of "stagflation." The fact is that the administration's main hope for stimulating economic recovery-monetary policy—is not working.

As everybody knows there are two principal theories about how to foster inscensed aconomic se-tivity. One is the Keynesian theory, which suppassings fiscal policy made through the medius of the federal budget. The premise is that the government can nudge particular groups of consumers or busine buying or investing by budgetary outlays or tax benefits.

The other theory is the menetarist theory widely associated with Prof. Millon Priodman of the University of Chicago. The premise is that prespectly is a function of the morey pumped into the private banking system by the Federal Reserve Board. The monetarists argue, more on historical grounds than by a show of cause-and-affect evidence, that steady prosperity can be schieved if the Fed expands the money supply by roughly 6 percent per sear.

In the past President Nixon has leaned very heavily toward the monetarists. Those of his followers who like to call themseives conservatives are pleased by the emphasis on private banks as against the federal budget, and he himself has been close to Prof. Friedman and his disciples, When announcing his economic plans for this year, however, the President declared, "I am a Kcynesian." It was presumed that he would follow an economic policy which mixed the two approaches.

Not All the Way

But it now develops that Mr. Nixon's conversion to Keynesianism was half-hearted indeed-a. profession of faith more designed to disarm critics than to govern policy. The amount of stimulation deliberately cranked into this year's budget was no greater than in the previous year-tho year of recession. While there has been some slippage that promises a big budgetary deficit by the end of the year, the reason is mainly decreased tax payments rather than increased outlays.

Moreover, stimulating the economy through the budget requires a parallel policy of holding down wages and prices to guard against inflation. But the Nixon administration has acted only mildly and reluctantly in the wage and price field. The 31 percent pay increase granted by the aluminum companies last week virtually assures a similar increase by the steel companies later this summer. That means the administration cannot seriously dig in on wages and prices until fall at the carliest, and without such a stand:

Officers gave this account: Fred Delgado, 39, in a fit of anger, warned his wife, Joan, 34, shortly after midnight that he planned to throw the boy and two other children out of the window of the apartment. Mrs. Delgado ran in search of a patrolman.

Sam Macchio, 58, returning to his home in the same building, heard screams, looked up, and saw his godson hurtling down and caught him, police said. Four patrolmen found the door barricaded and broke it down. Police said they found Delgado with a blanket over his head and the two other children unharmed. After putting up a fierce strug-gle, he was booked on charges of attempted murder, assault, en-dangering the welfare of a minor, and resisting arrest.

Journeying Into Nightmare

By Thnmas Quinn Curtiss DARIS, June 9 (IHT .- Prologue," a new work by Robert Wilson, is having its world première at the Espace Pierre Cardin.

To explain the play would be futlle. It has neither any spoken words nor the faintest discernible story line. It is devised as a theatrical happening, hopefully to trap the spectator's imagination and to enlist it in a strange, nightmare journey.

The other evening an audience of 100 was invited to attend the preview. Perhaps this log of what took place that night will serve as a record and a guide.

The guests were advised that the spectacle would begin at 8:30. Among those present were Louis Aragon, Mrs. Georges Auric, Mrs. Raymond Cariler, Daniel Gelin. Polrot-Delpech of Le Monde and Louis Chauvet of Le Figaro. There was also an American centingent, which to judge by its attire dld not patronize Cardin. and which strained to keep its conversation at a lofty if precarlous cultural level. The evening's first experience was a half-bour wait in the lobby. Shortly after nine the assembled were marched upstairs and halted at the auditorium doors. In particular Verdi brought to Piare's attention a German romantic drama warmly praised by Mmc. de Stael. Friedrich Ludwig Zacharias Werner's "Attila, or, the King of the Huns." Werner. whom Goethe esteemed, had written his play as a protest against the aggression of Napoleon. Verdi saw in it the posstibility of an operatic protest against his beloved Italy's lack of freedom.

Verdi's opera lies chronologic-ally between "Ernani" and "Macbeth." but it gets performed the least frequently of the three. A temperamental revival of this rarity at the Deutsche Oper Berlin has now perhaps given it a new lease on life. Judging from the shouting ovations the audience began according it even before the end of the prologue, the work holds far more interest for modern audiences than anyone might have thought.

Tito Capoblanco, the young Argentine stege director whose name one associates with the New York City Opera, chose his own "new version" of Verdi's work for his Berlin debut. The unfamiliarity of the original makes it impossible to ascertain to just what extent Mr. Capoblanco has monkeyed with it. At the world premiere in Venice's glorious old Phoenix Theatre on March 17, 1846, the audience

Art in Spain. A Hanging Museum for Abstracts

By Max Wykes-Joyce CUENCA (IHT).—Tucked away in the mountains three hours' drive from Madrid on the road to Valencia lies one of the most imaginatively displayed art collections in the world. Fathered by the Filipino artist Fernando Zobel, who was distressed to see most of the finest examples of Spanish abstract ort being sold abroad, he decided, 15 years ago to build up a selection of the work of some of his contemporaries. most of whom were also his friends. The importance of the collection came to be such that Zobel wished to make it available to the public. The problem then arose of how and where best to display it. He and his friends spent the winter of 1962 in Toledo, searching without suc-cess for the right setting. By chance one evening in the foi-lowing June, dluing with some fellow artists. Zobel mentioned his efforts in Toledo. One of those present, Gustavo Torner, nointed out that the famous hanging houses of his native Cuenca were being extensively renovated, and that as yet the city council had not decided to what use they were to be out. visit to Cuenca confirmed that the hanging houses fulfilled every concelvable requirement. A deal was concluded between the city and Zobel, and the project was under way. The museum opened in June, 1966.

To return to the collection-"abstract" is interpreted in the broadest sense of "non-figurative"; and the collection, based on quolity rather than breadth of representation, foruses on the best works of internationally acknowledged Spanish artists, such as Tapies. Tharrats. Cuiart, Torner, Sempere. Chillida. Canogar, Saura, Saez, Feito, Ser-rano and Zobel himself. It might be said to carry on the tradition initiated by Picasso, Gris and Miro. No attempt has been made to include every Spanish abstract artist, nor does the collec-tion pretend to be a historical survey of abstract art lu Spalu,

Trade Pattern Is Shifting in Soviet Union indicating there were etill some details to be completed. However,

Import of Consumer Items Up, Exports Off

By Theodore Shabad MOSCOW, June 9 (NYT).-Soviet foreign trade figures made public today confirmed a reported trend to increase the import of consumer goods as part of an effort to raise the domestic standard of living.

Trade figures for 1970 published in the economic weekly Ekonomicheskaya Gazeta also showed a decline in the export of consumer items with a view to make ing more available to the internal

For decades Soviet economic planners have given priority to the development of heavy industry and defense needs while consumption levels were maintained far below the standards of other industrialized nations.

The current five-year plan (1971-75), endorsed by the Com-munist party's 24th congress in April has been presented by Soviet spokesmen as a turning point in favor of the consumer.

Sign of New Policy

Although only about 5 to 10 percent of the nation's consumer goods needs are met by imports and the shift in trade patterns last year was relatively slight, it was evident that a new policy had begun to operate.

The economic weekly disclosed that the share of consumer goods in the lotal value of imports rose to 36.1 percent last year from 36.2 percent in 1969. At the same time the share of consumer goods in total exports fell to 12.2 from 14.7

Apparel imports, which had been relatively steady in previous years, rose to 699 million rubles last year from 614 million rubles in 1969. One ruble is $1.11 at the official rate of exchange.

The value of imported furniture, another important item, rose to 176 million rubles from 168 million, and leather shoes to 61 million pairs from 57 million. Taking advantage of its trade ties with developing countries, the Soviet Union has also been increasing imports of tropical and subtropical fruits, long a

Rhône-Poulenc's Net Falls 20.7%; Turnover Rises

PARIS. June 9 (Reuters).-Consolidated profits at Rhonc-Poulenc, France's largest chemical and textile concern, declined 20.7 percent last year-459 million francs ($62.7 million) from the 579 million in 1969.

Turnover increased 6.6 percent, however, to 11.03 billion francs from the previous 10.15 billion. Rhone-Poulenc said the textile sector suffered in line with the general reduction in consumption. Chemical activities represented 49 percent of turnover, textlles 34 percent, pharmaceuticals 13 percent and plastics and films 4

Investments last veor totaled 1.36 billion francs, up about 60 percent from 1969.

Company president Wilfrid Baumgartner sald that 5 billion francs will be inrested over the next three years—of which 75 percent will be self-linanced. Mr. Baumgartner said talks are going on which might lead to Rhone-Poulenc increasing its 44 percent share in Pechiney-Saint-Gobain.

Talks Forecast On Soviet-Japan Crude Pipeline

TOKYO. June 9 (AP).—The Soviet Union and Japon are expected to discuss next month a plan to build a 2,440-mile 13,926kilometer: trans-Siberian pipeline to supply low-sulphur Soviet crude oil to Japan, the Federation of Economic Organizations

Keldanren: said today. The pipeline would link irkuisk in Soviet Asia to Nakhodka, an eastern scaport facing the Sea of Japan. Japanese officials estimated that pipes used for the link would cost about $350 million and the total cost of the project might reach $1 billion.

Keidangen said the project would be included in a proposed agenda for on annual conference of Japanese and Soviet economic leaders to be held here next

The Soviet Union first proposed construction of the pipeline two years ago but the idea was drop-ped because of the high cost. The idea, however, was revited earlier this year when Arab nations. which are Japan's major oil suppilers, hiked the price of crude.

SYMBOLIC START - Norwegian Premier Trygve Bratteli unveils a plaque today at the Phillips Group oil test platform "Gulftide" in the Eknfisk North Sea field. Production is to start Munday.

West Europe's Biggest Oil Field Officially Launched

EKOFISK OIL PIELD, North Sea. June 6 (AP).-Norwegian Prime Minister Trygve Brattell officially opened Western Europe's biggest oil field today located in the center of the storm-tossed North Sea.

Only 24 guests, ferried by helicopters, were invited to the production platform, about 185 miles (300 kilometers) southwest of Stavanger, for the ceremony marking Norway's entry into the oil-producing business and Western Europe'a first step toward fuel independence.

Production of the Phillips Petroleum group project in the Ekofisk field starts at 40,000 barrels a day. A graduol increase of production from 30 additional wells is expected to reach a total of about 300,000 barrels a day by the end of 1973, a flow comparable to the richest Middle East Wells. Other promising fields have been located nearby.

"As far as oll is concerned, the North Sea discoveries so far will not upset the balance of oil reserves in the world-reserves will still be heavily weighted towards the Middle East -but they will have a tremendous value to Europe as a politically safe supply." W.W. Dunn, Phillips vice-president said. When full production is reached it is expected a pipeline will link the field to a shore terminal. Meanwhile the oil will be transported to a refinery at Risavika, near Stavanger, by oil tankers. The construction of a one-million-barrel underwater storage tank is planned near Stavanger.

The underwater tank will enable offloading when bad weather prevents tankers from landing oil ashore. The group consists of Phillips, with a 36.96 percent interest: Petrofina of Belgium, 30 percent; Petronord of France, 20 percent and Agip of Italy with 13.04 percent.

The group has estimated it will coat some $400 million to fully develop the Ekofisk field. Present investment in the North Sea by international oil groups exceeds $1 billioo.

U.S. Seeks Ways to End Tax Evasion

Treasury Plans New Record Requirements

WASHINGTON, June 9 (AP-DJ1.—The Treasury proposed to-day a broad set of new financial record-keeping requirements in-tended mainly to reduce tax evasion and other illegal activities through use of secret foreign bank accounts.

For individuals, the proposa's would require an immediate report to the Customs Bureau each time currency or other monetary instruments exceeding $5,000 are moved out of the country.

Much more extensive reporting would be imposed on banks, savings and loan associations, securities and commodities dealers and credit unions. #### Peru Sets 10% ProfitSharing

LIMA, June 9 (AP-DJ) .- A new general mining law, giving workers a share in company profits and ownership, was announced by the Peruvian government yesterday.

Under the law, each mining company must give 10 percent of annual net profits to "mining communities." composed of company workers. Of the total, 4 percent in cash must be distributed among the workers. The remaining 6 percent will purchase company stock until the "mining community" owns 50 percent.

The law also reaffirms the ex-clusive rights of the state in the refining and sale of mineral products and warns foreign-owned mining companies that while their investment is welcome, they must conform to Peruvian law.

The new law was outlined in radio and television speech by Minister of Mining and Energy Jorge Pernandez Maldonado.

Previously announced laws must allocate 35 percent of net profit and fishing companies 20 percent to "communities" formed their workers.

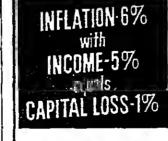

Largest Industry

The difference in the mining industry, Mr. Fernandez said, is because it provides a much greater percentage of national income than industry or fishing.
Mining is Peru's largest single industry and mineral exports provided the nation with an es-timated $500 million last year. Mr. Pernandez said the state will have exclusive rights to the refining of copper, the country's single most important mineral product. But agreements allowing private companies to refine copper will be respected, he said. Peru produces an estimated 220.000 tons of copper annually. The nation's privately-owned mining companies—the largest of which are U.S.-owned-had no immediate comment on the new caught up in selling, but they bounced back. Bellwether IBM, which had fallen 11 1/4 in the week's first two sessions, sank to a new 1971 low of 308 before rebounding sharply to close with a gain of 5.3/4 at 316 1/4.

Similar action cropped up in the other computer stocks. Con-trol Data closed with a gain of 1 1/4, Burronghs was up 1 7/8 and Honeywell climbed 1 1/4.

General Electric, whose 2-for-1 split became effective yesterday, eased 1/8, closing at 59 1/2. Polaroid leaped 6 1/4 to close at 114 3/4, after reaching a new 1971 high of 115 1.2 earlier in the session. The company disclosed plans to introduce a new camera and lower-cost film that will turn nut instant color photographs for about the same price as conventional coinr pictures. Eastman Kodak, the leader in the conventional-picture field, alipped 1/6 to 82,

Kinney Services went through a trading halt and then closed up 1/2 at 36 1/3 after announcing plans to sell its funeral chapels to Servisco for more than s35 million in cash, notes and stock. Kinney also disclosed an change, prices were slightly lower with the exchange index off 0.04.

NEW YORK, June 9 (NYT) .-Bache & Co. reported yesterday that its profits for the three months ended April 30 constituted a record for any quarter and was a sharp contrast to the yearago loss.

The nation's second-largest brokerage house said that net earnings for the quarter amounted to $6.59 million. The year-ago loss was $4.77 million.

This performance reflects the general improvement on Wall Street since the long bear market came to an end 12 months ·Bache attributed its improved position to "strong and effective" internal control measures, the introduction of the $15 stock transaction surcharge and the change in the country's economic climate as reflected in the securities markets.

The only larger brokerage house, Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith recorded a pretax profit of $50,05 million in Its quarter ended March 26, up from $19.54 million in the like 1979

All our representatives are awars of this ad.

💳 Your investment destiny . . . 💳 Are you expert enough to manage it yourself?

Are you skillful enough and do you have the time to invest your money in the securities best suited to your needs at your age and financial condition? Can you make all the buying and selling decisions, see to it that they are properly executed by your broker, and keep him interested in you even though you might have a small account?

Or would you prefer to appoint a top flight investment advisory service, open to the average investor, to do your financial thinking for you. AT NO COST UNLESS YOU REALIZE A PROFIT.

We have prepared a booklet which explains in careful detail how our personal, individual service can perform to make your investments grow. It is written in English, French or German and is yours upon request. Just ask for the Personal Portfolio Management booklet in the language you prefer. Write Department 613.

By Alan Truscott

Those who take the traditional side of the four-or-five-card major controversy have a rare but useful by-product of their methods. A bid in a four-card major sometimes "steals" the op-poneot's suit. It did so on the diagramed deal played in the 1971 Vanderbilt Cup contest. The North-South partnership was using the Blue team club system, but this did not affect the auctino to any extent. No conventions were used, and two American experts using four-card major openings might easily make the same bids. North's raise to three diamoods at his second turn was on the aggressive side. He tried to apply the brakes at the four level, but South was not interested in a part-score.

Notice that South's opening bid

"stole" West's suit, and that player was no longer interested in bidding his long, strong hearts.

West led the club ten, which was ducked around to the acc. At the second trick, South led the heart queen, and West play-ed low nonchalantly. He hoped South would ruff, but South discarded a spade from dummy. He was mildly surprised to find he had won the trick. He was expecting to avoid a spade loser by ruffing out a high beart honor from the West hand later, but as it turned out he had avoided a heart loser.

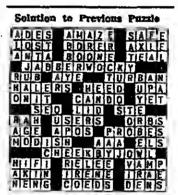

The heart jack was led, and this time West covered and dummy ruffed. The club queen was led, and East covered with the king and South ruffed. diamood ace followed, collecting the queen, and the declarer was well-placed. He ruffed a heart. returned to his hand with a spade lead to the king, and ruffed his last heart with the diamond ten. If East had overruffed with the diamond king, the declarer would automatically make 12 tricks by discarding his spade loser on the club jack. So East discarded the spade queen in-stead. When the diamond ten held. South ruffed a small club and led the diamond jack. The defense now could never make more than one trick and North-South scored 420. In the other room, North-

South doubled three hearts and collected 300. NORTH A 863

CONSUMING PASSIONS A Historic Inquiry Into Certain English Appetit

By Philippa Pullar. Illustrated, Little Brown, 278 pp. Reviewed by Christopher Lehmann-Haupt

AS long as there is history, of English cooking through people will so on dreaming up new ways to look at H. I. guess: although often enough what seems at first an original and amusing approach—the toy in lustery, or history as revealed by testes in household nets—turns out to be an awful bore in the reading. Philippa Pullar's interest is food, it seems—she has a Cor-don Bleu Certificate of Cookery and has been manager of a res-taurant. (Also, she likes guines, pigs, Greek dancing. Italy, Indge making and cats, and is a fellow of the Royal Horticultural So-ciety.) She has set about in her wilting titled book, "Consuming Passious," to view the history of England from ancient times through its cating habits. And. through its cating habits. And, execptionally, her book turns out to be just as entertaining as her

I'm not certain why this should be, aside from the fact that Mrs. Pulter is a graceful and withy writer. It is not as if one was dying to learn how English cook-ing arrived at its present low ertern (I'm quite fond of it myself but I consider that one of my aberrations). Possibly I had an edge of appetite while I read it and unconsciously savored the lists of puddings and the recipe for Treacle Roly Poly. Possibly too, it amused me to learn the origins of hot cross buns and umble-pie.

Mere likely, Mrs. Pullar succeeds because she has stretched the definition of human appetite to its broadest possible meaning and written a chronicle of taste, derire, concupiscence and consumptioo. At any rate, starting off with the Epicurean orgies, which, according to her, formed part of the background of Eng-lich eating habits, I fairly gob-bled up her history, and felt sad at the end when I learned that the demand for mutton in Eng-land has now all but disappeared. Mrs Pullar's approach is basi-eally simple: She has briefly surered English history from its "Roman Spring" to the present, concentrating on those episodes and documents that concern sensunt appetite and gastric juices, True, she leans heavily on the well-known literature, attending Roman dinner parties through the eyes of Petronius and Pliny the Younger, viewing medieval English village life through the words of William Langland, cutting up a Twelfth Night Cake with Pepys, listening in on Dr. Johnson's dinner talk with Boswell and recalling Edwardian breakfasts with J. B. Priestley. Ent this is by no means exclusively a book of twice-told tales. The author has tested recipes all the way back to those from the only classical Roman recipe book known to us, and she has traced the practical evolution of recipes included in a la appendix. She offers the esting conclusion that, con to the opinion of scholars have been put off by unaging vocabularies and vague tity specifications, Roman menievel English cookery we at all unpalatable, but ac of a high culinary order. And she has her theori how English cooking got the

Letter Can Get Pancho on Cup Team

NEW YORK, June 9 (AP).—Pancho Gonzales, 43, can return to the U.S. Davis Cup team for the first time in 23 years if he'll just sit down and write n letter.

But he ought to hurry.

"We're watching the mails," Bob Colwell of Seattle, new president of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association, said here early this week. "Sweden wrote us last week and asked if Pancho is now eligible. We checked with Pancho, who referred us to his attorney. The attorney said Pancho is no longer under pro contract and so he can play in the Davis Cup.

"Lamar Hunt (owner of World Championship Termis, Inc.) insists Pancho is still under contract to him, since he bought the contract from George transferable.

"We have advised Sweden, Hunt and Pancho that if he writes us that he is no longer a contract pro, we will honor his request to try out for the Davis Cup."

The Davis Cup Challenge Round is scheduled Oct. 9-11 on the clay courts of Charlotte, N.C. work and the Frenchman danced away with middleweight cham-pionship of Europe.

Bouttler knocked down champion Duran three times. Each tims he got up and twisted and turned his long torso and bounced off the ropes and one and two and twisted and turned and bounced. The movement did not impress the judges enough and Bouttler won a unanimous 15-round decision outdoors at the Roland Garros Stadtum.

The judges scored the fight: 72-66, 71-69 and 71-67. The Herald Tribune had it 74-66 for Whatever points Duran scored he did with his legwork. It is hard to score points by not throwing punches, which is what Duran did. Four and s half minutes passed before Duran, B naturalized Italian who was born in Buenos Aires, threw a punch. But what legwork! Especially for a man who is going to be 35 Dext

Still, the pirouettes were not Bouttier's prime problem. The Frenchman, 26, is a counterpuncher and when you don't have a punch thrown st you it is hard to counter nothing.

In the third round, Duran finally stood still for about eight secoods. That was because Bouttier, only 5-feet 9-inches, caught the 6-1 Italian with a straight right and put him down. Duran got . up and, seconds later, Bouttier caught him with a flurry of punches. A right scored the second knockdown of the round. "I didn't see him anymore after that." Bouttier said after the bout. "I saw that I couldn't catch him but I knew I was faster and just decided to outbox him." While outlosing him, Bouttler managed to get in a left book to Duran's jew in the 12th round to score his third knockdown. And Duran got op and danced, and landed with an occasional left jab and six or seven times hit Bouttler with his head. His best moves, though, came at the end of each round when he held up his hands to make sure that swered, "A little of everything." Bouttier came to Paris when he was 18 to learn to be a butcher and later worked as a cheese slicer. But since then he has become a class fighter and has had 54 bouts. Last night he gained his 50th victory. Bouttier disagrees with the record books. He insists he has 51 victories. He has lost three times and had one draw.

Duran'e won-lost-draw record is now 57-8-7 and retirement is probably one of his next dance steps. Bouttier is slowly marching toward a world championship As he has done in the past

By Judy Dalton Of Unfairness

NOTTINGHAM, England, June (UPI).—Australia's Judy Dalton today accused the International Lawn Tennis Federation of unfair treatment and said she was being made the scapegoat for withdrawals from the French open in Paris.

Mrs. Daltoo learned today she was the seventh player to be suspended by the ILTF for passing up the French Open. The other six, who were suspended Saturday are: Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, Tom Okker of the Netherlands, Egypt's Ismael El Shafel, plus Germans Ingo Buding, Helga Masthof-Niessen and Helga Hosl. Mrs. Daltoo said today: "I think I have been treated very unfairly, the French officials knew all along that I would not be playing. Other players do not have the courtesy to give their reasons for not turning up and nothing happens to them, I think they are bolding me up as a scapegoat." Her suspension from ILTF evects is to continue until she gives "an scceptable reason for withdrawing." Mrs. Dalton said she sent a letter to the French explaining her withdrawal but this had not been accepted as a reasonable excuse. I have given my reasons and I don't know what more they want," she added. The Australian declined to elaborate on her reasons for passing up

The Comeback of Luis Miguel Dominguin

MADRID (IHT).—Today the great bull-fighter Luis Miguel Domingum will make his comehock in the Canary Islands. After a few more days of what amounts to out-of-town tryouts, he will first fight on the Spanish mainland, at Alicante, on June 24. The next day he flies to Venezuela for a corrida, returning to Spain on the 27th with an hour-and-a-half to spare hetween landing and fighting his next

During this summer he will fight at least 60 limes in Spain, averaging one corrida a day. On July 14 he will fight in Arles. Luls Mignel Dominguin is 45 years old and has not appeared in the hull ring for ten years.

"I refued because I was tired." he says. "From the age of ten to 35 I fought. I needed to get away from it. It took me ien years to learn that what I really wanted was to come back."

Domingum is tail and long-muscled. with a fine-featured, elegant head on a long neck. "When he is at his best he looks like a combination of Don Juan and a good Hamlet," Ernest Hemingway said.

His gaze is astonishingly hard and kech making the ordinary person's eyes seem soft and out of focus. This may be typical soft and out of focus. of builfighters: Dominguin's friend Antonlo Bienvenida, who has also made a comeback this year, has the same gaze. Dominguin's mouth is a bit drawn with a uerrous tic-apparently an occupational problem with toreros, like arthritis in the hands because of the shocks their hands take. Dominguin wears a copper bracelet on his right wrist. He has a charming smile and a good dea! of lumor about himself.

"I'm like an old Folies-Bergère star, always taking pills," he announces, entering the modern living room of his Madrid apartment. He is pink-cheeked and is dressed in tones of beige. He has just come from a training session in which he lost three kilos.

Training is very boring without a crowd," he says. "The only thing that makes you dominate the fear of the bull is the fear of the public."

Doningun, born Miguei Luis Gonzalen Lucas, is the son and brother of bulllighters and the brother-in-law of Antonio Ordones, with whom he fought the 1959 mano a mano celebrated by Hemingway In "The Dangerous Summer." Dominguin himself sprang to fame with a challenge 10 Manolete iu 1947, a mano a mano lu which the older fighter was killed.

During his ten-year retirement Dominguin dabbled in export-import and was an ornament of the jet set. He is separated from bis Italian wife, who has pessession of his big house outside Madrid and their three children. Financial need and lhe starting of a new life—Dominguin is often seen with a heautiful blonde named Maria whom friends refer to as his wife-have been cited as reasons why Dominguin is returning to the ring. He is expected to earn $1 million his first year back. Dominguin denies that outside pressures have forced him back. "No. In those ten years nothing made me vibrate as much as the illusion of coming back," he says, stressing the word "illusion." His training consists of walking, running backwards, playing pelota and fighting bulls, He started his training in February, injured his knee and had it operated on in He will have had only about three weeks full training before his first Dominguin cannot, of course, choose the bulls he will fight, but he can choose the breeder and thus the type of bull. If the crowd isn't happy one day, the next day's bulls will be fiercer. "I would love to choose small ones. like Mimo." Dominguin says. Mimo is his toy poodle.

from a con man's brass to a priest's dedica-tion. Fear is essential: "It is like a drug." Dominguin says. "Pear makes you think you'll die. For that reason each minute has more intensity. It is a kind of purifi-

If the demands are great, so are satisfactions for a great torero. "In life there is an infinity of things one must feed one-self to be happy," Dominguin says. "You feed your body with food, your vanity with success. . . To realize all these things is difficult, but it gives a pleasure out of all proportion to the pain."

The pain is real-Dominguin has been gored more than a dozen times—but it is part of the experience. "In Spain," he says with B shrug, "we say if there weren't ngly women there wouldn't be any beautiful women." He puts on his jacket. He is off to the bospital to visit Ordonez, who had been gored in the ear a few days ago.

Next day at noon it is time to pick up Dominguin at the Real soccer stadium, where he has been working out. He is wearing a faded blue sweatsuit and blue sneakers and, although be has given up smoking, he puffs nervously at a clgarette. He looks pale and feels terrible: He lost too much weight yesterday, he is dizzy, his blood pressure is way down.

Still, he wents to train. His chauffeur drives him to his own hullring on the outskirts of Madrid, where B small group of expert-looking men waits. The forero Bienvenida is there to shout encouragement, Dominguin needs it.

The first bull is a sorry apecimen who has lost his left born in a night with other bulls. Dominguin knocks him off and he is dragged off by his one born. There's nothing to say.

The next hull weighs 850 kilos and charges out with fierce energy. The at-mosphere changes: Without music, crowds, banderillos. Dominguin in his hlue sneakers and sweatsuit begins his horrible work moving in closer and closer, insanely close, spellbinding, working, it seems, with the bull who collaborates in his own death. The only sound is cheers when it is over.

Dominguin leaves the ring. His cheeks are flushed, his blood pressure has, he is sure, gone up. What did he think of the second bull? "In all the days I've been training. I never had a good one. The minute this one came out I knew he was good and my confidence came back." The chauffeur has been dismissed and Dominguin drives his car, a modest green SEAT, expertly and daringly back into town. His sweatsuit is bloodstained. In the trunk of the green SEAT an aide has put the bull's testicles. They are, it is said, a great delicacy.

Notes From the Far Side

Picking up where we left off yesterday:
"The inimitable Eolly Massee originally told me this one," writes Jack Massee, of Paris: "'A father is driving his son to school. A car hits them, killing the father instantly and seriously injuring the son, who is rushed to an operating room. The surgeon enters, looks at the boy and says: I can't operate on him. He's my son. How can this be?"

"If you can't answer immediately, read it again," says
